

Fundraiser had centres buzzing

THE World's Greatest Shave was short and sweet, channelling funds into research on leukemia and support for those who live with it.

As the hair came off and the dye went on, the willing victims paid in several thousand dollars over a couple of hours at Macquarie Centre on Friday.

In a six-hour shave-a-thon at the Rhodes Shopping Centre on Thursday, participants and supporters pumped in a whopping $15,000.

This healthy exercise was made possible by the generous support of the hairstylists of the centre, who gave their time and expertise to frizz, trim and tint countless heads of hair.

Willing volunteers do their bit for the Leukaemia Foundation at the Macquarie Centre.
